BUREAU TRIUMPHS

WORK DONE THE FIRST YEAR IN AUDRAIN COUNTY.

BY COUNTY ADVISER

Number of Agriculturists Who Are Seeking Advice Is Increasing Each Month in That County.

Thirteen counties of Missouri have taken advantage of the offer made by the University of Missouri and the Federal department of Agriculture to furnish "farm advisers" to those counties that will pay one-half of the salary cost. The usual procedure is for the interested men of a county to form a county farm or agricultural bureau, the county court appropriating the funds necessary for half of the salary paid the adviser assigned the county by the university. The members of the bureau, through membership fees and subscriptions, pay the other costs, such as a salary for a secretary, office rent, furnishings and supplies and current expenses.

Nodaway county is one of the counties that hasn't a farm bureau. That one is needed here is admitted by those that are interested along agricultural lines and an attempt was made for one a year ago. However, it is predicted in the near future that we will have a farm adviser.

In the thirteen counties that have these advisers, the reports received indicate that they are doing a great good for the farmers. And in all of them are found that those who were strongly opposed to the plan are the best boosters.

In an article written by W. G. Hutton for the St. Louis Republic of the work of the farm bureau in Audrain county, Mexico being the county seat, he tells of what has been accomplished there during the past year. Audrain county adviser was employed by raising subscription for half of the salary cost, the other half being paid by the State and Federal governments. In the twelve other counties supporting a county adviser the necessary funds are supplied from public monies by official action of the county courts.

Mr. Hutton says in his article about Audrain county in part.

Farmer E. W. Rusk went through the discouraging period of last year's drouth with remarkable nerve. The failure of the crop-making elements was hard enough, but the almost total lack of public sympathy after he had passed the town limits harder to overcome.

There was lots of lost motion in making long overland drives to consider individual problems, the solutions of which were of value only to the friendly man who called for help. Later, two or three cases could be considered in the course of a single journey, then more and more.

Possibly the most important effect of the Audrain County Farm Bureau during the twelve months of its existence, with the exception of the better sentiment which is apparent throughout the county, is the work of Rusk in hog cholera control. Although the value of this work cannot be estimated alone in the number of pounds of pork actually saved from disease up to this time.

During the year, Rusk vaccinated 3,288 head of hogs against cholera and a very large percentage of the animals which were well at the time of the vaccination, but which had been exposed to infection, were saved. A fair per cent, even of those that were sick of cholera at the time they were treated, were saved.

Following last summer's work along this line, Rusk has caused petitions to be circulated calling on the College of Agriculture to send lecturers to this county to join in a campaign of education, June 22-27. The outline of this campaign contemplates reaching every corner of the county, the automobile owners of town and county placing their machines at the disposal of the lecturers and demonstrators for that purpose.

Since the establishment of the bureau the increase in the number of silos in the county has amounted to 50 per cent and the prospect for the increase the present crop season are much better than last.

Farmer Rusk is finding the boys and girls of the county a fertile field for his endeavors, and there have been boys' corn clubs and girls' tomato clubs formed in all parts of the county. In addition, of especial importance in a county devoting much of its effort to stock growing, the farm boys have been interested in stock-judging contests with satisfying results.

Another important part the boys and girls are taking in the work of the farm adviser is in the selection, improvement, storage and testing of seed. They are being taught these things, largely through the co-operation of the teachers of the rural schools.

Farmer Rusk has made tests of hundreds of samples of seed for purity and germination, with the result that both seedsmen and farmers are more careful to obtain pure seed, and through co-operation with the Missouri Farmers' Exchange Bank of Columbia and other county agents throughout the United States, the farmers of this county are in a position to obtain reliable and suitable seed of almost any character from almost any section of the country.

In the matter of better and purer seed for the county, several of the farmer members of the local bureau are carrying on seed-corn variety tests in co-operation with the Missouri College of Agriculture. In these tests one quart each of six varieties of corn are planted side by side for the purpose of determining which is best suited to the soil and local conditions. The value of these tests will be seen in later plantings of the variety which proves most suitable. Like tests are being made of the legume growths, especially soy beans, one of the members, a graduate of the Missouri College of Agriculture short course, planting in the test plot twenty-five varieties.

The practical value of the soil investigations of the Audrain county Bureau has been great, there being more interest in the planting of legumes and the condition of the soil at present is better than ever before.

Under the influence of the County Bureau and its adviser, a Farmers' Exchange has been organized in the county, and a considerable amount of farm products has been bought and sold through that medium. The deals through this exchange are made without commission.

The organization is through auxiliary bureaus, scattered throughout the county co-operating with the County Farm Bureau. The secretaries of the auxiliary bodies keep "wanted" and "for sale" lists, detailing the needs and surplus of the members, and copies are sent to the secretary of the county organization in this city, who in turn distributes copies to all of the auxiliaries in the county.

The local bureaus may also co-operate with the Missouri Farmers' Exchange at Columbia and the same routine is carried on with reference to the entire State.

CARTER BOUND OVER.

Bail Fixed at $1,000 Which Was Given—Young Boy Important Witness For the State.

Arthur Carter, whose hearing was held yesterday before Justice of the Peace W. L. Johnson, on a charge of manslaughter in the fourth degree, was bound over to the September term of circuit court and bail was fixed at $1,000, which was given. Carter is charged with culpable negligence for the death of Charles Wood of near Barnard.

Harry Wood, the eleven-year old son of the deceased man, was the most important witness for the state. In telling his story at the hearing yesterday, he said in part:

"My father and I were in the wagon going to Barnard when suddenly a car appeared over the hill and passed us at a high rate of speed. Soon after, another car appeared and my father got out of the wagon to hold the team and was standing directly back of one of the front wheels near the brake. The car came on and first struck the front wheel, then hit my father and tore the brake loose, causing the car to turn sideways in the road. As my father fell he let loose of the lines and in some manner they became entangled in the front wheel and when the horse tried to move the lines pulled them around crosswise in the road."

Other evidence introduced told of Carter having made his car a racing car. The state is also claiming that Carter was on the wrong side of the road when passing the wagon.

CAPTAIN ANDERSON.
Commander of Storstad
Defends His Action In
Collision With Empress.

VESSELS TO WATCH FOR BODIES OF DEAD

Will Patrol St. Lawrence River
and Points Along Coast.

Montreal, June 4.—Government vessels were assigned to patrol the St. Lawrence river in search of any more of the Empress of Ireland's dead. By Sunday officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway Steamship company believe bodies should begin to appear. Special officers have been ordered to points along the coast.

The owners of the Storstad have entered a counter claim against the Canadian Pacific railway for $50,000 for damages done in the collision with the Empress of Ireland.

The counter claim contends the Empress was at fault and alleges negligence in her navigation. The Canadian Pacific had previously arrested the Storstad.

The St. Joseph Market Report.

South St. Joseph, Mo., June 2.—The market for fat cattle has been showing considerable activity during the past week. Prices on good to choice steers, particularly the light and handy weight classes, stand 10¢ to 20¢ higher. Plainer grades do not show quite as much strength compared with a week ago. Receipts continue light, only 2400 head received here for two days. The St. Joseph market is ruling strong compared with outside points where supplies are running heavier. Chicago market was weak yesterday against a strong to 10¢ higher trade here. A 13-car string of Colorado beeves, 1300 lbs., sold at $8.70 Monday, the sale grossing $24,000. No choice native steers offered so far this week. The top today is $8.00 on the yearlings. Choice yearlings sold latter part of last week up to $8.90 and heavy beeves to $8.85. Good fat heifers and corn-fed cows selling strong against a week ago. Grassy butcher stuff is increasing in volume and selling more or less unevenly. A wider spread between corn-feds and grassers is logically to be expected from now on. Veals are still slumping $1 to $1.25 being the extent of decline in the past week. Top vealers now selling at $9.00. Stocker and feeder market ruled stronger late last week but prices have settled back 10¢ to 15¢ again. Stock cows and heifers are in less urgent demand and selling 25¢ to 40¢ lower than 10 days ago.

Situation continues rather bearish in the hog market. Prices were forced down to $7.90 @ 8.05 yesterday. The market reacted today, however, 5¢ to 10¢ advance being noted, putting the market on an $8.00 @ $8.10 basis, with top $8.15. These prices are steady with a week ago. Pigs, however, are 25¢ lower with good kinds selling around $7.00.

Sheep market has struck a better gait. Prices 15¢ to 25¢ higher this week. Most of the lambs coming are springers. Top on this class today, $9.10. Receipts of live mutton seasonably light.—St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

Moore as Platform Manager.
Prof. Victor L. Moore, formerly head of the Maryville Normal's Latin department and now of the faculty of Arlington Military academy, Arlington, Texas, was in St. Joseph Monday, the guest of L. C. Gabbert. Moore was en route to St. Paul, Minn., where he goes to enter chautauqua work as platform manager for the summer.—St. Joseph Gazette.

In Johnsons Court.

Two civil cases will be tried in Justice of the Peace W. L. Johnson's court on Friday. Both cases will be tried by jury. They are:

Frank Ulmer vs. Ed. Bolin, suit for failure to comply with contract.

Murlin McClurg vs. Guy Williams, suit to collect $40, for the pasturing of 10 head of horses for 8 days.

E. H. Bainum went to St. Joseph Thursday for a short business trip.

How to Operate an Incubator.

Users of incubators are given the following suggestions in a new free publication of the department of agriculture entitled "Natural and Artificial Incubation of Hens' Eggs" (Farmers' Bulletin No. 585):

See that the incubator is running steadily at the desired temperature before filling with eggs. Do not add fresh eggs to a tray containing eggs which are undergoing incubation.

Turn the eggs twice daily after the second and until the nineteenth day. Cool the eggs once daily, according to the weather from the seventh to the nineteenth day.

Turn the eggs before caring for the lamps.

Attend to the machine carefully at regular hours.

Keep the lamp and wick clean.

Test the eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days.

Do not open the machine after the eighteenth day until the chickens are hatched.

In setting up and operating an incubator follow the directions of the manufacturer. There are a large number of reliable American-made incubators, but the department cannot recommend any particular kind. It does advise, however, that poultry raisers select an incubator that has already given satisfaction in the vicinity where it is to be used. As the cost of the machine is small compared with the eggs it hatches, it is a good investment to get a well-constructed incubator instead of a cheap one, which requires more attention and wears out quicker. The equipment of most incubators is so subject to change that particular lamps, regulators, etc., cannot be recommended. The lamp, however, should have a bowl large enough to hold enough oil to burn thirty-six hours under average weather conditions, should be easy to remove and replace, should set absolutely tight in position, and be at a convenient height.

An incubator holding sixty eggs calls for as much time and care as one holding 350, and for ordinary use a machine of at least 150-egg capacity seems most satisfactory. On those large farms that use individual lamp incubators, the machine usually holds from 300 to 400 eggs, and a small machine is sometimes used for a preliminary test, the eggs being transferred to the large incubator after the first or second test. Large machines cost less in proportion to the number of eggs they hold than smaller ones. However, smaller machines are valuable under special conditions, as for preliminary testing.

Chickens are more even in size when they are all hatched within a short time of each other than when the incubating period is extended over many weeks. Many poultrymen, therefore, believe that it pays to have an incubator large enough to hatch most of their stock in two, or at least three hatches. Much time in tending to the incubators and brooders is saved in this way. A fair estimate for a poultry farm is to have the incubator hold as many eggs as there are hens, provided that about one-half of the flock is to be renewed yearly and no outside hatching is carried on.

A well-extra room, which is not subject to great variation in temperature, should be selected for the incubator. If built above ground, the wall should be double and the entire building insulated. In sections that have a mild climate, machines may be operated in buildings with single walls, but a well-insulated room is always preferable.

Where only a few small machines are used they are generally run in a room or cellar of the house. Good results in hatching may be secured in cellars as well as in rooms, and these are more commonly used. Many of these cellars are provided with some system of ventilation beside windows, muslin screens on the windows often providing good ventilation without draft and keeping the sun from shining on the machines. Cement floors are easier to keep clean than dirt floors. Where the equipment is extensive, a special cellar or house should be provided.

In setting up the machine, get it perfectly level. Do not plane off the door if it sticks, until the machine has been heated up and thoroughly dried. Run the machine at about 102 degrees F. for a day before putting in the eggs. Afterwards do not touch the regulator for several hours as it takes this time for the machine to come back to its regular temperature.

The temperature should remain nearly even. When the bulb of the thermometer rests directly on the eggs the temperature is usually held at 101½ to 102 degrees F. the first week, 102 to 103 degrees F. the second week and 103 F. degrees the last week; while a hanging thermometer is operated at about 102 to 102½ degrees F. the first two weeks and 103 degrees F. the last week.

The eggs tend to throw off more heat as they develop, so that occasionally the regulator needs to be changed slightly, but it should not be changed any more than is absolutely necessary. The temperature of the egg chamber may be lowered by lowering the flame of the lamp in the middle of the day. Regulate the incubator before opening the door to tend the eggs. Most operators tend to their machines two or three times daily.

The cause of poor hatches is a much discussed question, which depends on a great variety of circumstances. A poor hatch is more apt to be due to the condition of the eggs previous to hatch than to incubation, although improper handling of either factor will produce the same results. When eggs fail to hatch, see whether the breeding stock is kept under conditions which tend to produce strong, fertile germs in the eggs, if the eggs have been handled properly before incubation, and whether the conditions were right during incubation, as judged by the time of the hatch.

A daily temperature record should be kept of each machine. The operator can thus compare the temperature at which the machines have been kept, which may prove valuable in the future work, especially if the brooder records can be checked back against those of the incubator.

Every poultry raiser who contemplates setting up an incubator is advised to write for the new Bulletin, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Among other details it has paragraphs on moisture and ventilation, testing eggs, and disinfecting and storing incubators.

State Fair Silo School?

One of the new features of the State Fair in Missouri this year is the Silo school proposed by Mr. W. L. Nelson, Assistant Secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. There will be a special section of the fair devoted to erected silos of all kinds and to models of makes not putting up full size structures. The Missouri farmer who is planning a silo for 1915 can mighty well afford to make the State

Fair trip this year for the Silo School alone.

"Alfalfa and a Silo on Every Farm" is a motto proposed by the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture for Nodaway county. What do you say—is it a good way—will it pay?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Local applications, as they cannot reach the internal portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. Last week one of the largest wholesalers held a gigantic clearing sale of over $1,000,000 worth of new merchandise.

We were told that they would offer wonderful values. We attended the sale and found that the values WERE wonderful. We bought a great quantity of NEW merchandise at the LOWEST prices we have ever seen quoted.

The goods are here and we shall place them on sale in the MORNING! Because of the low prices we bought them at and on account of the large quantities we had to buy, we have marked these goods LOWER THAN THEY HAVE EVER BEFORE BEEN SOLD FOR.

We do not hesitate to say that the values in this sale are WONDERFUL — that you have never SEEN THEIR EQUAL FOR THE PRICE!

Many of the lots are limited — come early to choose from the complete assortments. We cannot duplicate this merchandise at these prices, so when the lots are sold out your opportunity to choose from these great bargains will have passed.

Every article offered is new and in perfect condition. The values cannot be duplicated.

Mechanically — No Car Made — Is the Superior of the OVERLAND

AFTER all is said and done, the supreme test of any car's value is the kind of mechanical performance it gives in the hands of tens of thousands of owners. The car that requires practically no attention, after this most convincing of all tests, is the kind of a car you want to buy. For the car that takes you any place, any time, under any condition, at the lowest cost, gives that which every buyer is after—unfailing and consistent service.

Up to date, we have delivered 42,000 cars of this year's allotment. Previous to that time, we had delivered over 100,000 cars. So right now there are over 142,000 Overlands giving satisfactory service in all parts of the world.

We point and refer you to these 142,000 owners. They are our best advertisement.

Ask them about the mechanical efficiency and out-and-out economy of the Overland.

The Overland chassis is one of the most accurately made and finely finished pieces of mechanism in the world.

Each individual part or piece, from the tiniest bolt to the large body, is made as accurately and precisely as modern methods, expensive scientific instruments and costly automatic machinery can make and produce it. Parts are manufactured, tested and inspected to one two-thousandths of an inch. Nothing but the very best finest steels are used.

Then, too, our huge production of 50,000 cars makes it economical for us to use the most complete equipment of labor-saving automatic machinery. A small manufacturer could not dream of utilizing such equipment. He does not produce a sufficient number of cars to offset the overhead. The result is—he has to buy, from some outside source, parts which we make. Thus, in producing every part ourselves, we eliminate these extra costs which the small manufacturer cannot escape.

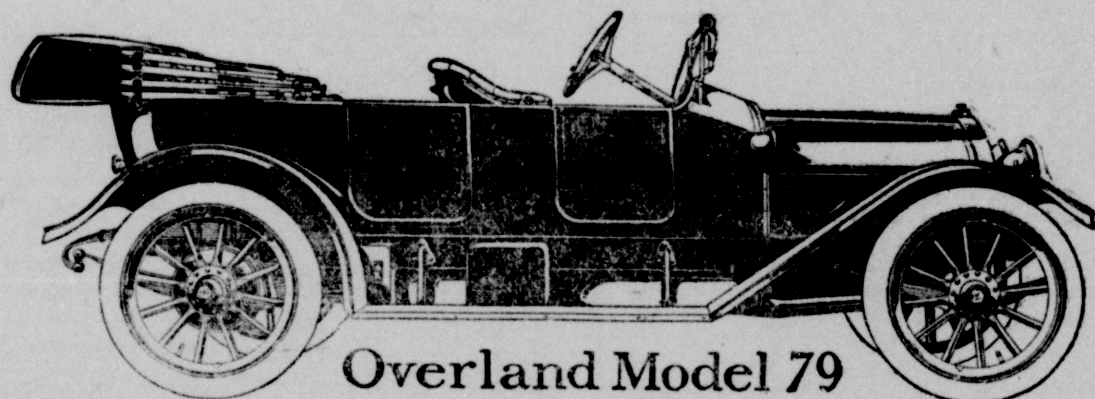

And that is why the Overland is not only letter-perfect mechanically, but, in addition, and what is probably just as important, that is why it costs you 30 per cent less.

See the nearest Overland dealer today. Have a thorough demonstration of this car, and you will have no other.

Save Egg Losses.

(By H. L. Kempster.)

Statistics show that during the summer months one-fourth to over one-half the eggs produced in Missouri are a total or partial loss.

Heat is directly or indirectly responsible for a loss to Missouri farmers of two and one-half million dollars worth of eggs annually. Heat causes germ growth, embryo and mould development, increases evaporation and causes eggs to become bad in a very short time. April eggs are high in quality because of the lower temperature which prevails at that time.

According to studies made at the Missouri College of Agriculture, nearly all of the loss in eggs due to heat can be avoided by the ordinary conveniences that the average farm provides. If farmers would take the same care of eggs that they do of butter before and during the time that it is taken to market, there would be practically no loss from heat. Any temperature above 70 degrees is too warm. Even under the best conditions eggs should be taken to market at least once each week.

Eggs should be collected daily and should be cooled as quickly as possible. A sweet, fresh basement which is cool or a cyclone cellar makes a satisfactory place to store eggs. They may also be kept cool by placing them in a bucket lowered into a well. Avoid storing them in musty basements and keep them away from the flies.

If these directions are followed and eggs are carefully protected from heat while being taken to market, the value of Missouri's egg crop may be increased two and one-half million dollars during the next four months.

GOING AFTER UNION PACIFIC

Salt Lake Commercial Club Protests Distribution of Extra Dividend.

Salt Lake, June 4.—Expressing a belief that the Union Pacific Railroad company has exceeded its charter rights as a corporation of Utah by declaring an extra dividend of $80,000,000, the Commercial club traffic bureau filed a request with Governor Spry, asking that he direct the attorney general to investigate and to take the proper steps to prevent distribution of the dividend, if it be found that the bureau is right in its position. The governor has the matter under advisement.

The basis of the petition is the expressed belief of the petitioner that if the dividend be distributed, it will furnish an excuse for the imposition of an unjust burden of taxation on the people of Utah in the form of freight charges.

McAdoo Back From Honeymoon.

Washington, June 4.—Secretary McAdoo and his bride, who was Miss Eleanor Wilson, returned to Washington after spending their honeymoon in New Hampshire. Gave Away $200,000 at Dinner Michael Toomay, who died recently near Braymer, Mo., at the age of 83 years, was one of the many remarkable characters of North Missouri. He was a farmer and had lived 58 years upon the same land. A stowaway boy in an emigrant ship sailing from County Cork, Ireland, he became very wealthy for a man who devoted his efforts absolutely to farm activities. A few months before he died he invited his eight children to a family dinner at his country home in Ray county. After the frugal meal he gave away property worth a quarter of a million dollars, this being not by any means all of his wealth. Four of his children are old maids who have devoted their lives to the farming interests of their father.

Senate Committee Decides to Report Sutherland Resolution.

VOTE IS EIGHT TO SEVEN.

It Directs President Wilson to Open Negotiations With Great Britain for Settlement of the Panama Canal Tolls Question.

Washington, June 4.—Just when a vote on the Panama canal tolls exemption repeal bill seemed certain to come within a few days the senate foreign relations committee complicated the situation by reporting favorably a resolution designed to lead to the submission of the dispute with Great Britain to arbitration by an international tribunal.

So far as administration leaders know, the president is opposed to arbitration unless the tolls exemption repeal bill is passed. It is believed by many senators that without the president's approval no arbitration proposal can receive a majority.

By a vote of 8 to 6, the senate foreign relations committee adopted the Sutherland resolution directing President Wilson to open negotiations with Great Britain for special arbitration of the Panama tolls dispute. The resolution now goes to the senate.

Senator Borah (Rep.) was not present when the vote was taken, but later notified Chairman Stone he wished to vote against reporting the resolution, making the vote 8 to 7.

Sensors Stone, O'Gorman, Pomereene, Swanson and Smith of Arizona, Democrats, and Smith of Michigan, Republican, were the others voting against it. Senators Hitchcock, Williams and Saulsbury, Democrats, and Lodge, Root, McCumber, Sutherland and Burton voted for it. Three were not present.

Senator O'Gorman declared the action would not affect the fight against the passage of the repeal bill.

"I don't know what the vote indicates," was Chairman Stone's only comment. "It is well understood in the senate, however, that many senators who favor arbitration believe that before it should be chosen as a method of settlement the repeal bill should be enacted."

The men on trial are Barney J. Sylvester, Robert Owens, Frank C. Nugent, Timothy D. Callahan, William H. Dolan, Frank Soren, Thomas J. Kerrigan, Michael Burke, Patrick McLaughlin and Daniel Cronin.

PEACE NOW UP TO CARRANZA

Rebel Leader Asked to Participate in Mediation Conference.

MUCH DEPENDS UPON REPLY.

Setback May Be the Result—Report of a Compromise by Which the Constitutionalists May Be Admitted to the Deliberations.

Washington, June 4.—Whether the constitutionalists of Mexico are to participate in the peace negotiations at Niagara Falls probably will be determined before another day has passed.

Agents of General Carranza, the revolutionary chieftain, were in direct telegraphic communication with the constitutionalist leader, after having forwarded to him the answer of the South American mediators to his message of protest carried to Niagara Falls last week.

Publication of the message of the mediators was withheld here until General Carranza has determined upon his reply. Rafael Zubaran, minister of the interior in Carranza's cabinet and at the head of the constitutionalist agency in Washington, would not discuss the nature of the mediators' proposals or the probable attitude of his chief. Persons in touch with constitutionalist agents, however, ventured the suggestion that the terms upon which the mediators proposed to receive the constitutionalists into the peace negotiations would be declined.

The note from the mediators, addressed to Mr. Zubaran, reached Washington in the afternoon. As soon as the message was received Messrs. Zubaran, Vasconcelos and Urquidí of the constitutionalist agency began preparations to communicate with General Carranza at Durango by a special wire. When the message of the mediators had been forwarded, conferences with their chieftain were begun over the wire. It was stated that the message from the mediators was accompanied by a request that nothing be made public until a conclusion had been reached.

Administration Officials Wait.

While negotiations between Carranza and his Washington representatives were in progress, administration officials awaited the outcome with anxiety. In official quarters there were some expressions of apprehension over the success of mediation plans as originally outlined. It was the first time that any admissions had been made of probable setbacks in the progress of peace. Yet those who admitted the possibility of obstacles in the way of settlement of the Mexican situation insisted that all difficulties would be overcome.

Secretary Bryan again reiterated his insistent declaration that mediation was progressing satisfactorily.

Strictest secrecy was maintained at constitutionalist headquarters throughout the evening concerning the proposals to Carranza from the mediators.

It was reported to contain compromise offers upon which Carranza's representatives would be admitted to the peace negotiations. These included, it was said, provision for a limited armistice and assurances of ample participation on the part of the constitutionalists in the proposed provisional government to replace the Huerta regime pending a general election.

FEAR INDIAN UPRISING

Settlers in Yaqui Valley Preparing to Desert Their Homes.

Naco, Ariz., June 4.—Because of Indian troubles, many American settlers, who through all previous difficulties have remained upon their ranches in the Yaqui river valley in Sonora, are preparing to desert their homes for the safety of the United States, according to reports which reached Naco.

In spite of warnings from the United States authorities, the Mexican constitutionalists and the Yaqui Indians themselves, the settlers previously had remained firm in their declaration to stay upon their property and the intention now to leave resulted from the constantly increasing number of Indians gathering in that district.

The Indian scare has spread rapidly throughout the entire state of Sonora, and inhabitants of towns in the Montezuma and Arizpe districts, 100 miles or more from the Yaqui river valley, are arming themselves in preparation for possible conflict with the Indians.

General Asbert Given Twelve Years.

Havana, June 4.—General Ernesto Asbert, former governor of Havana province, and Eugenio Arias, a former member of the house of representatives, were sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment for the killing in July, 1913, of General Armando Riva, chief of the national police.

BOUGHT TROLLEYS TO INCREASE FACILITIES

Director Explains Why New Haven Expended Millions.

Washington, June 4.—William Skinner of Holyoke, Mass., and James S. Elton of Waterbury, Conn., directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, testifying before the interstate commerce commission at its investigation into the affairs of the road, said the acquisition of trolleys in sections of New England, steamship lines and other properties at a cost of many millions, constituted a part of the New Haven's comprehensive plan to increase its facilities.

Many of the properties thus acquired, it was stated, had only a prospective value, the natural growth of New England being taken into consideration by the directors.

Elton, questioned on this point by William Nelson Cromwell, counsel for several of the directors, said that the purchase for $11,000,000 of the New York, Westchester and Boston road, the stock of which former President Mellen of the New Haven testified was worth "10 cents a pound," was for the purpose of obtaining a foothold in the metropolitan district and obtaining greater and better terminal facilities in New York.

Elton testified the directors of the New Haven had changed their methods and now were not influenced so much by one or two men, like J. Pierpont Morgan and Mr. Mellen, as they formerly were. He said the "directors" now direct and have learned a great many things. He added that President Elliott was more deliberate than Mr. Mellen and did not "rush them off their feet."

Skinner said it was his belief that "if things had been allowed to go on and the New Haven and its officials had not been subjected to inimical inquiries and legislation the property would have pulled out all right, perhaps in five years." He asserted that Mellen could have retained the presidency of the road had he so desired, as he had a majority of the directors with him.

BERNHARDT TO SERVE YEAR

Tveitmo and Houlihan Will Be Given New Trials.

Chicago, June 4.—The judgment of the United States circuit court of appeals in granting new trials to Olaf A. Tveitmo of San Francisco and Richard Houlihan of Chicago, in the dynamite cases, was affirmed by that court in an opinion handed down by Judge Seaman.

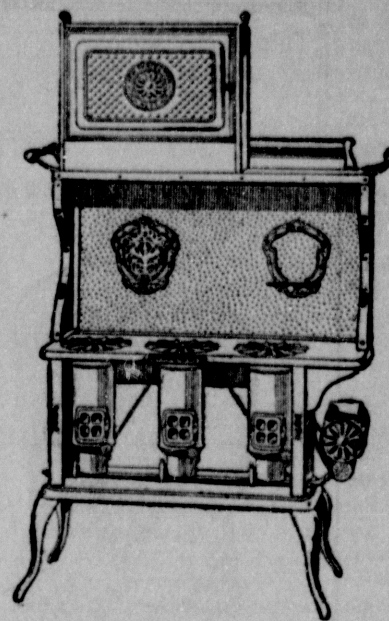

The court reversed itself in granting a new trial to William Bernhardt of Cincinnati. The government's contention that the court erred in granting Bernhardt a new trial was upheld by the court and the sentence of one year imposed by the lower court must be served, according to the opinion.

FOREST RESOURCES.

To Be Developed by University—50,000 Acres in Southern Part of State.

Although Missouri is not primarily a timber-producing state, its forest resources are to be developed by the forestry department of the University of Missouri. A tract of timber land in the southeast part of the state, in all about 50,000 acres, belonging to the State University is to be administered so as to give the most practical results.

Frederick Dunlap, professor of forestry at the University of Missouri, and Ernest C. Pegg, instructor in forestry, will go to the reserve this summer to make a thorough investigation of the land.

For the last six years none of this land has been sold, and it is the intention of the University to carry out this policy, unless some of the land is entirely unfit for timber growth.

"In a couple of decades we hope to have this land on a paying basis," said Professor Dunlap. "The land will be more than a laboratory place for the students in forestry. Missouri has no state forester and no state forestry department, but the forestry department of the University will do the work for the state. With careful supervision of this timber reserve, we hope to have an excellent body of timber within thirty or forty years."

Mrs. J. R. Lucas, of Chicago, who had been a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Ellison, and family, left Wednesday for Adrian, Mo., to spend several weeks with relatives.

ADVISE DRINKING GOAT MILK.

Experts of Department of Agriculture Say It Is Most Healthful.

Experts of the United States department of agriculture are urging us to raise more goats and to drink more of their milk. That there is money in goat raising can be seen from the fact that every year we import from other countries nearly $30,000,000 worth of goat skins. And there is ample scientific authority for the statement that goat's milk is not only the most economical, but the most healthful milk we can drink.

Milk is furnished much more cheaply by the goat because the yield, when the size of the goat and the amount of feed and care are considered, is proportionately much greater than the cows.

Aside from its greater degree of richness there is no appreciable difference in its appearance or taste.

Most important of all is the fact that the goat is the only dairy animal that is practically immune to tuberculosis. Its milk can be drunk freely without risk of taking into the system at the same time the germs of this dread disease.

According to Dr. W. Sheldon Bull of Buffalo there is hardly a part of the United States where goats would not thrive.

While it is true that the ideal locality for goats is one that is high and rocky and overgrown with weeds, briars, brush and small trees, as they are by nature and preference browsing animals, in this respect being an exception to all other domestic animals, it is a fact that such a location is not essential. The milk goat will thrive and produce a plentiful supply of rich milk when tethered on grass land, in addition to stall-feeding, if comfortably housed at night and during bad weather, or even when kept constantly in a barn and supplied with all its rations there.

This adaptability to confinement, together with its productiveness, makes the milk goat particularly valuable to the residents of cities and suburban places who desire to secure a regular supply of pure, new milk, without being dependent upon the milkman, whose "milkman's milk" is not always of the best quality and which, under the most favorable circumstances, is received and consumed with more or less suspicion as to its freshness, its cleanliness and its healthfulness.

Moulds Fatal to Poultry.

(By H. L. Kempster)

Mouldy litter in poultry houses and mouldy feed are the cause of a large number of deaths among poultry and particularly among chicks. These moulds taken into the body of the fowl cause a disease known as Aspergillosis. The disease is as fatal as the name sounds. Our scientists have neglected to find a shorter name for the disease, but among poultrymen chicks affected with the trouble are commonly spoken of as "lungers." Many times the disease is mistaken for white diarrhea. The Missouri College of Agriculture, in its investigation of poultry diseases, notes the following characteristic symptoms: The chick stands around in a drowsy manner and shows little desire to eat. The wings hang down, the breath is rapid and a white diarrhea is present.

An affected chick will be found to have soft, yellow growths from the size of a pin head to that of a pea, mainly in the lungs, but sometimes in the intestines and mesentery. These growths, clogging the air passages of the lungs, are directly responsible for the death of affected birds.

In mature fowls there are two forms of the disease. The mucous membrane lining the air-sacs and tubes may be covered with a membranous formation which is soft and yellowish and has an offensive odor, or the post mortem will reveal white or yellowish nodules imbedded in the tissues of the lungs.

Early symptoms are that the bird is inactive, sleepy and if forced to run, will fall from exhaustion; and breathing is rapid, appetite is diminished and more or less catarrh is present.

There is no cure for the trouble, but since it is caused by eating mouldy feed or by being permitted access to mouldy litter, it can be entirely prevented by not compelling fowls to eat mouldy food and by keeping them away from mouldy litter.

This is just one of the many poultry troubles that can be entirely avoided by feeding nothing but fresh clean feed and keeping the pens and yards free from filth and moulds.

PLACES DYNAMITE, THEN GIVES ALARM
Hoped to Prove Self a Hero and Get Raise in Salary.

Washington, June 3.—The finding of five sticks of dynamite, with burning fuses attached, under the office of Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture, led to the arrest of Daniel H. Jauch, the watchman who found the explosive.

The first warning was given the clerks and government officials in the building by the watchman, who rushed through the corridors, shouting that the massive structure was about to be destroyed by dynamite. Hundreds fled to safety, while several men ran to the basement, where they found the sticks of dynamite, on which the fuses had burned out. Apparently an explosion had been averted only because the fuses had been jammed so tightly into the detonation caps that the fire was extinguished.

The dynamite had been placed directly beneath the office of Secretary Houston. The secretary was out of town, but immediately across the corridor from his office Assistant Secretary Galloway and several other officials were working. That part of the building would have been destroyed had not the sizzling fuses burned out.

Jauch, who had suffered severe injuries to his head while serving as a soldier in the Philippines several years ago, was subjected to rigid questioning. Later the police announced he had admitted that he himself placed the explosives. Department officials said they believed the watchman intended to discover the dynamite before it could do harm, hoping thereby to win promotion for heroism.

SERUM FOR HOG CHOLERA

NOTWITHSTANDING THE GREAT GOOD IT HAS DONE, IT IS NOT THE ONLY MEASURE TO CONSIDER.

By J. W. Connaway, Professor of Veterinary Science, College of Agriculture, University of Missouri.

Notwithstanding the great good that serum has done in curing hog cholera, its importance is exaggerated. In fact, there are other and more important measures that should be used.

The prompt and intelligent use of quite simple measures of sanitation by a group of farmers whose farms adjoin will effectually rid the neighborhood of the disease. The sick hogs and the dead hogs are full of the virus. These will contaminate feed, fields, roads, streams, barns, railroad and stock yards, pigs, pigeons and barnyard may carry a disease from an infected farm to a new one. But if the proper precautions are taken to isolate and destroy the infection these carriers that are so difficult to control become harmless as distributors of the virus. The fact that we now have a serum to rid us does not lessen the importance of these simpler methods.

Deaths from the herd every sick on the first appearance of sickness. Do not wait until a diagnosis is made.

Isolation Pens Should Have Poultry Netting Around Them.

Isolation Pens Should Have Poultry Netting Around Them.

Place the hog in a quarantine pen or pen covered with wire netting. Keep out the chickens and birds. The infection will then be confined to small space and will not reach the other animals. To destroy the germ of the disease the dead hogs should be burned; the law requires it. Use fresh bleached lime abundantly about the hogs and sheds, rake up the litter and burn it or mix it thoroughly with lime. Disinfect the wagon wheels and harnesses. A spray of crude oil will kill the lice. Santonin and calomel (six grains to each 100 pounds live weight) to stop, on an empty stomach, is useful in expelling worms. A mixture of sal soda, three pounds; copperas, three pounds; common salt, three pounds; sulphur, one pound; charcoal, four pounds, kept in a trough in a dry place is also a good worm preventive.

If the farmers of any neighborhood will follow the recommendations made, but little hog cholera serum will be required—and farmers have time and again kept their herds free from the disease by such measures.

However, when an outbreak of cholera does occur the farm adviser should be notified at once, if there is one in the county.

A balanced ration aids in keeping hogs in good health. When feeding in the dry lot corn can be balanced by feeding corn six parts and oil meal one part; or corn three parts and ship stuff one part; or corn 10 to 15 parts and tankage one part. Soybean or alfalfa hay is also excellent.

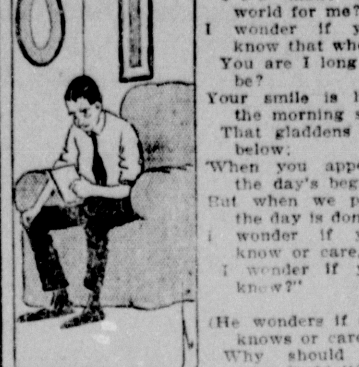

From the time rye, wheat, clover or alfalfa starts in the spring until the last pasturing goes in the fall, hogs should be kept out in the fields. Rape planted in rows will make pasture throughout the season, and it cannot be equalled as forage for hogs. Hogs should be kept on the plowed fields, rather than on permanent pastures. A good three-year rotation for hogs is: Corn and cowpeas; soy beans; rape. Shade should be provided. When throwing out corn throw it in different places. Fill an old wagon with corn and haul it from place to place. Water should be supplied from barrels or tanks, hauled to different places in fields where the hogs are pasturing.

The College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, together with the United States department of agriculture, tests seeds for vitality and impurities. This service is free to all Missouri farmers.

The ONLOOKER

HENRY HOWLAND

HE WONDERS IF SHE KNOWS

"I wonder if you know how fair you make the world for me? I wonder if you know that where you are I long to be? Your smile is like the morning sun that gladdens all below. When you appear the day's begun. But when we part the day is done— I wonder if you know or care. I wonder if you know?"

(He wonders if she knows or cares; Why should he ever doubt it? The leveler, long—ing look he wears Has told her all about it. Although he never tells her so, He may be sure that she will know; Love needs no speech—long, long ago Love learned to do without it.)

"I wonder if you ever guess That when you linger near The world is filled with loveliness, That when you leave 'tis drear? For you, sweetheart, it is that all The fairest breezes blow, And from the skies the stars would fall Responsive to your witching call: You smile to gladden and to bless— I wonder if you know?"

(He wonders if his sweetheart knows Or has the wit to guess it? He tells it everywhere he goes His looks and sighs confess it; He thinks her lips forbidden fruit, Ah, let him cease from being mute, And boldly, bravely press his suit— She longs for him to press it.)

War Had No Terrors for Her. "I can't understand how it is," said the natty lieutenant, "that you are able to be so calm."

"Why shouldn't I be calm?" replied the beautiful girl who had found a temporary refuge upon the mighty warship.

"I should think the firing of our guns would frighten you. Even men who are not used to them generally exhibit signs of terror, or, at least, of nervousness. They don't appear to disturb you at all."

"Oh, no. I don't mind them. You see, I have become accustomed to such sounds. That's one of the advantages of living where an automobile backfires every few minutes."

AS HE LIKED IT.

"Do you take milk and sugar in your coffee?" asked the lady who hated to see anyone go hungry.

"No, mum," replied Plodding Pete, "if you ain't got no cream I'll only take sugar."

The Black Sheep. "What," asked the man who had returned to his native town after an absence of many years, "became of Ed Ferguson?"

"Ed? Oh, he's doin' fine. Got the best lively stable anywhere around here and runs the depot hack."

"Let's see, he had a younger brother, hadn't he?"

"Yes; Lem. He never amounted to much. Wrote poetry and painted pictures. I guess the family kind of disowned him. At least, he went away several years ago, and I dunno what ever became of him."

Just the Man He Wanted. "Doctors often scare people to death by letting them know how dangerous their maladies are," said the white-haired physician.

"Say, doc," the young man replied, "would you mind coming with me to diagnose my rich old uncle's case? And I'd be willing to double your fee if you would speak right out plainly in case you found anything serious the matter with him."

Certainly. "Why do you always read the news paper criticisms of the opera so carefully after you have attended a performance?"

"People will be sure to ask about it, and one must be able to answer as if one understood something about it you know."

Faith. "Don't you think," she asked, "that women are likely to have a deeper stronger faith than the men have?"

"They must have," he replied, "or it wouldn't be possible for so many beauty doctors to continue in the business."

Unnecessary. "Why is it that so few of the monologue artists on the stage are women?"

"Women don't need to go on the stage to be monologue artists."

She Knows. The maiden primping at her glass Is also very wise; By putting on a gown that shows Her figure best the winsome lass Makes plain the fact that she, too, knows It pays to advertise.

BUREAU TRIUMPHS

WORK DONE THE FIRST YEAR IN AUDRAIN COUNTY.

BY COUNTY ADVISER

Number of Agriculturists Who Are Seeking Advice Is Increasing Each Month in That County.

Thirteen counties of Missouri have taken advantage of the offer made by the University of Missouri and the Federal department of Agriculture to furnish "farm advisers" to those counties that will pay one-half of the salary cost. The usual procedure is for the interested men of a county to form a county farm or agricultural bureau, the county court appropriating the funds necessary for half of the salary paid the adviser assigned the county by the university. The members of the bureau, through membership fees and subscriptions, pay the other costs, such as a salary for a secretary, office rent, furnishings and supplies and current expenses.

Nodaway county is one of the counties that hasn't a farm bureau. That one is needed here is admitted by those that are interested along agricultural lines and an attempt was made for one a year ago. However, it is predicted in the near future that we will have a farm adviser.

In the thirteen counties that have these advisers, the reports received indicate that they are doing a great good for the farmers. And in all of them are found that those who were strongly opposed to the plan are the best boosters.

In an article written by W. G. Hutton for the St. Louis Republic of the work of the farm bureau in Audrain county, Mexico being the county seat, he tells of what has been accomplished there during the past year. Audrain county adviser was employed by raising subscription for half of the salary cost, the other half being paid by the State and Federal governments. In the twelve other counties supporting a county adviser the necessary funds are supplied from public monies by official action of the county courts.

Mr. Hutton says in his article about Audrain county in part.

Farmer E. W. Rusk went through the discouraging period of last year's drouth with remarkable nerve. The failure of the crop-making elements was hard enough, but the almost total lack of public sympathy after he had passed the town limits harder to overcome.

There was lots of lost motion in making long overland drives to consider individual problems, the solutions of which were of value only to the friendly man who called for help. Later, two or three cases could be considered in the course of a single journey, then more and more.

Possibly the most important effect of the Audrain County Farm Bureau during the twelve months of its existence, with the exception of the better sentiment which is apparent throughout the county, is the work of Rusk in hog cholera control. Although the value of this work cannot be estimated alone in the number of pounds of pork actually saved from disease up to this time.

During the year, Rusk vaccinated 3,288 head of hogs against cholera and a very large percentage of the animals which were well at the time of the vaccination, but which had been exposed to infection, were saved. A fair per cent, even of those that were sick of cholera at the time they were treated, were saved.

Following last summer's work along this line, Rusk has caused petitions to be circulated calling on the College of Agriculture to send lecturers to this county to join in a campaign of education, June 22-27. The outline of this campaign contemplates reaching every corner of the county, the automobile owners of town and county placing their machines at the disposal of the lecturers and demonstrators for that purpose.

Since the establishment of the bureau the increase in the number of silos in the county has amounted to 50 per cent and the prospect for the increase the present crop season are much better than last.

Farmer Rusk is finding the boys and girls of the county a fertile field for his endeavors, and there have been boys' corn clubs and girls' tomato clubs formed in all parts of the county. In addition, of especial importance in a county devoting much of its effort to stock growing, the farm boys have been interested in stock-judging contests with satisfying results.

Another important part the boys and girls are taking in the work of the farm adviser is in the selection, improvement, storage and testing of seed. They are being taught these things, largely through the co-operation of the teachers of the rural schools.

Farmer Rusk has made tests of hundreds of samples of seed for purity and germination, with the result that both seedsmen and farmers are more careful to obtain pure seed, and through co-operation with the Missouri Farmers' Exchange Bank of Columbia and other county agents throughout the United States, the farmers of this county are in a position to obtain reliable and suitable seed of almost any character from almost any section of the country.

In the matter of better and purer seed for the county, several of the farmer members of the local bureau are carrying on seed-corn variety tests in co-operation with the Missouri College of Agriculture. In these tests one quart each of six varieties of corn are planted side by side for the purpose of determining which is best suited to the soil and local conditions. The value of these tests will be seen in later plantings of the variety which proves most suitable. Like tests are being made of the legume growths, especially soy beans, one of the members, a graduate of the Missouri College of Agriculture short course, planting in the test plot twenty-five varieties.

The practical value of the soil investigations of the Audrain county Bureau has been great, there being more interest in the planting of legumes and the condition of the soil at present is better than ever before.

Under the influence of the County Bureau and its adviser, a Farmers' Exchange has been organized in the county, and a considerable amount of farm products has been bought and sold through that medium. The deals through this exchange are made without commission.

The organization is through auxiliary bureaus, scattered throughout the county co-operating with the County Farm Bureau. The secretaries of the auxiliary bodies keep "wanted" and "for sale" lists, detailing the needs and surplus of the members, and copies are sent to the secretary of the county organization in this city, who in turn distributes copies to all of the auxiliaries in the county.

The local bureaus may also co-operate with the Missouri Farmers' Exchange at Columbia and the same routine is carried on with reference to the entire State.

CARTER BOUND OVER.

Bail Fixed at $1,000 Which Was Given—Young Boy Important Witness For the State.

Arthur Carter, whose hearing was held yesterday before Justice of the Peace W. L. Johnson, on a charge of manslaughter in the fourth degree, was bound over to the September term of circuit court and bail was fixed at $1,000, which was given. Carter is charged with culpable negligence for the death of Charles Wood of near Barnard.

Harry Wood, the eleven-year old son of the deceased man, was the most important witness for the state. In telling his story at the hearing yesterday, he said in part:

"My father and I were in the wagon going to Barnard when suddenly a car appeared over the hill and passed us at a high rate of speed. Soon after, another car appeared and my father got out of the wagon to hold the team and was standing directly back of one of the front wheels near the brake. The car came on and first struck the front wheel, then hit my father and tore the brake loose, causing the car to turn sideways in the road. As my father fell he let loose of the lines and in some manner they became entangled in the front wheel and when the horse tried to move the lines pulled them around crosswise in the road."

Other evidence introduced told of Carter having made his car a racing car. The state is also claiming that Carter was on the wrong side of the road when passing the wagon.

CAPTAIN ANDERSON.

Commander of Storstad
Defends His Action In
Collision With Empress.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

VESSELS TO WATCH FOR BODIES OF DEAD

Will Patrol St. Lawrence River
and Points Along Coast.

Montreal, June 4.—Government vessels were assigned to patrol the St. Lawrence river in search of any more of the Empress of Ireland's dead. By Sunday officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway Steamship company believe bodies should begin to appear. Special officers have been ordered to points along the coast.

The owners of the Storstad have entered a counter claim against the Canadian Pacific railway for $50,000 for damages done in the collision with the Empress of Ireland.

The counter claim contends the Empress was at fault and alleges negligence in her navigation. The Canadian Pacific had previously arrested the Storstad.

The St. Joseph Market Report.

South St. Joseph, Mo., June 2.—The market for fat cattle has been showing considerable activity during the past week. Prices on good to choice steers, particularly the light and handy weight classes, stand 10¢ to 20¢ higher. Plain grades do not show quite as much strength compared with a week ago. Receipts continue light, only 2400 head received here for two days. The St. Joseph market is ruling strong compared with outside points where supplies are running heavier. Chicago market was weak yesterday against a strong to 10¢ higher trade here. A 13-car string of Colorado beeves, 1300 lbs., sold at $8.70 Monday, the sale grossing $24,000. No choice native steers offered so far this week. The top today is $8.00 on the yearlings. Choice yearlings sold latter part of last week up to $8.90 and heavy beeves to $8.85. Good fat heifers and corn-fed cows selling strong against a week ago. Grassy butcher stuff is increasing in volume and selling more or less unevenly. A wider spread between corn-feds and grassers is logically to be expected from now on. Veals are still slumping $1 to $1.25 being the extent of decline in the past week. Top vealers now selling at $9.00. Stocker and feeder market ruled stronger late last week but prices have settled back 10¢ to 15¢ again. Stock cows and heifers are in less urgent demand and selling 25¢ to 40¢ lower than 10 days ago.

Situation continues rather bearish in the hog market. Prices were forced down to $7.90 @ 8.05 yesterday. The market reacted today, however, 5¢ to 10¢ advance being noted, putting the market on an $8.00 @ $8.10 basis, with top $8.15. These prices are steady with a week ago. Pigs, however, are 25¢ lower with good kinds selling around $7.00.

Sheep market has struck a better gait. Prices 15¢ to 25¢ higher this week. Most of the lambs coming are springers. Top on this class today, $9.10. Receipts of live mutton seasonably light.—St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

Moore as Platform Manager.

Gabbert. Moore was en route to St. Paul, Minn., where he goes to enter chautauqua work as platform manager for the summer.—St. Joseph Gazette.

How to Operate an Incubator.

Users of incubators are given the following suggestions in a new free publication of the department of agriculture entitled "Natural and Artificial Incubation of Hens' Eggs" (Farmers' Bulletin No. 585):

See that the incubator is running steadily at the desired temperature before filling with eggs. Do not add fresh eggs to a tray containing eggs which are undergoing incubation.

Turn the eggs twice daily after the second and until the nineteenth day. Cool the eggs once daily, according to the weather from the seventh to the nineteenth day.

Turn the eggs before caring for the lamps.

Attend to the machine carefully at regular hours.

Keep the lamp and wick clean.

Test the eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days.

Do not open the machine after the eighteenth day until the chickens are hatched.

In setting up and operating an incubator follow the directions of the manufacturer. There are a large number of reliable American-made incubators, but the department cannot recommend any particular kind. It does advise, however, that poultry raisers select an incubator that has already given satisfaction in the vicinity where it is to be used. As the cost of the machine is small compared with the eggs it hatches, it is a good investment to get a well-constructed incubator instead of a cheap one, which requires more attention and wears out quicker. The equipment of most incubators is so subject to change that particular lamps, regulators, etc., cannot be recommended. The lamp, however, should have a bowl large enough to hold enough oil to burn thirty-six hours under average weather conditions, should be easy to remove and replace, should set absolutely tight in position, and be at a convenient height.

An incubator holding sixty eggs calls for as much time and care as one holding 360, and for ordinary use a machine of at least 150-egg capacity seems most satisfactory. On those large farms that use individual lamp incubators, the machine usually holds from 300 to 400 eggs, and a small machine is sometimes used for a preliminary test, the eggs being transferred to the large incubator after the first or second test. Large machines cost less in proportion to the number of eggs they hold than smaller ones. However, smaller machines are valuable under special conditions, as for preliminary testing.

Chickens are more even in size when they are all hatched within a short time of each other than when the incubating period is extended over many weeks. Many poultrymen, therefore, believe that it pays to have an incubator large enough to hatch most of their stock in two, or at least three hatches. Much time in tending to the incubators and brooders is saved in this way. A fair estimate for a poultry farm is to have the incubator hold as many eggs as there are hens, provided that about one-half of the flock is to be renewed yearly and no outside hatching is carried on.

A well-extra room, which is not subject to great variation in temperature, should be selected for the incubator. If built above ground, the wall should be double and the entire building insulated. In sections that have a mild climate, machines may be operated in buildings with single walls, but a well-insulated room is always preferable.

Where only a few small machines are used they are generally run in a room or cellar of the house. Good results in hatching may be secured in cellars as well as in rooms, and these are more commonly used. Many of these cellars are provided with some system of ventilation beside windows, muslin screens on the windows often providing good ventilation without draft and keeping the sun from shining on the machines. Cement floors are easier to keep clean than dirt floors. Where the equipment is extensive, a special cellar or house should be provided.

In setting up the machine, get it perfectly level. Do not plane off the door if it sticks, until the machine has been heated up and thoroughly dried. Run the machine at about 102 degrees F. for a day before putting in the eggs. Afterwards do not touch the regulator for several hours as it takes this time for the machine to come back to its regular temperature.

The temperature should remain nearly even. When the bulb of the thermometer rests directly on the eggs the temperature is usually held at 101½ to 102 degrees F. the first week, 102 to 103 degrees F. the second week and 103 F. degrees the last week; while a hanging thermometer is operated at about 102 to 102½ degrees F. the first two weeks and 103 degrees F. the last week.

The eggs tend to throw off more heat as they develop, so that occasionally the regulator needs to be changed slightly, but it should not be changed any more than is absolutely necessary. The temperature of the egg chamber may be lowered by lowering the flame of the lamp in the middle of the day. Regulate the incubator before opening the door to tend the eggs. Most operators tend to their machines two or three times daily.

The cause of poor hatches is a much discussed question, which depends on a great variety of circumstances. A poor hatch is more apt to be due to the condition of the eggs previous to hatching than to incubation, although improper handling of either factor will produce the same results. When eggs fail to hatch, see whether the breeding stock is kept under conditions which tend to produce strong, fertile germs in the eggs, if the eggs have been handled properly before incubation, and whether the conditions were right during incubation, as judged by the time of the hatch.

A daily temperature record should be kept of each machine. The operator can thus compare the temperature at which the machines have been kept, which may prove valuable in the future work, especially if the brooder records can be checked back against those of the incubator.

Every poultry raiser who contemplates setting up an incubator is advised to write for the new Bulletin, No. 585, the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Among other details it has paragraphs on moisture and ventilation, testing eggs, and disinfecting and storing incubators.

State Fair Silo School?

One of the new features of the State Fair in Missouri this year is the Silo school proposed by Mr. W. L. Nelson, Assistant Secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. There will be a special section of the fair devoted to erected silos of all kinds and to models of makes not putting up full size structures. The Missouri farmer who is planning a silo for 1915 can mighty well afford to make the State

Fair trip this year for the Silo School alone.

"Alfalfa and a Silo on Every Farm" is a motto proposed by the Secretary of the Board of Agriculture for Nodaway county. What do you say—is it a good way—will it pay?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Last week one of the largest wholesalers held a gigantic clearing sale of over $1,000,000 worth of new merchandise.

We were told that they would offer wonderful values. We attended the sale and found that the values WERE wonderful. We bought a great quantity of NEW merchandise at the LOWEST prices we have ever seen quoted.

The goods are here and we shall place them on sale in the MORNING! Because of the low prices we bought them at and on account of the large quantities we had to buy, we have marked these goods LOWER THAN THEY HAVE EVER BEFORE BEEN SOLD FOR.

We do not hesitate to say that the values in this sale are WONDERFUL — that you have never SEEN THEIR EQUAL FOR THE PRICE!

Many of the lots are limited — come early to choose from the complete assortments. We cannot duplicate this merchandise at these prices, so when the lots are sold out your opportunity to choose from these great bargains will have passed.

Every article offered is new and in perfect condition. The values cannot be duplicated.

Mechanically — No Car Made — Is the Superior of the OVERLAND

AFTER all is said and done, the supreme test of any car's value is the kind of mechanical performance it gives in the hands of tens of thousands of owners. The car that requires practically no attention, after this most convincing of all tests, is the kind of a car you want to buy. For the car that takes you any place, any time, under any condition, at the lowest cost, gives that which every buyer is after—unfailing and consistent service.

Up to date, we have delivered 42,000 cars of this year's allotment. Previous to that time, we had delivered over 100,000 cars. So right now there are over 142,000 Overlands giving satisfactory service in all parts of the world.

We point and refer you to these 142,000 owners. They are our best advertisement.

Ask them about the mechanical efficiency and out-and-out economy of the Overland.

The Overland chassis is one of the most accurately made and finely finished pieces of mechanism in the world.

Each individual part or piece, from the tiniest bolt to the large body, is made as accurately and precisely as modern methods, expensive scientific instruments and costly automatic machinery can make and produce it. Parts are manufactured, tested and inspected to one two-thousandths of an inch. Nothing but the very best finest steels are used.

Then, too, our huge production of 50,000 cars makes it economical for us to use the most complete equipment of labor-saving automatic machinery. A small manufacturer could not dream of utilizing such equipment. He does not produce a sufficient number of cars to offset the overhead. The result is—he has to buy, from some outside source, parts which we make. Thus, in producing every part ourselves, we eliminate these extra costs which the small manufacturer cannot escape.

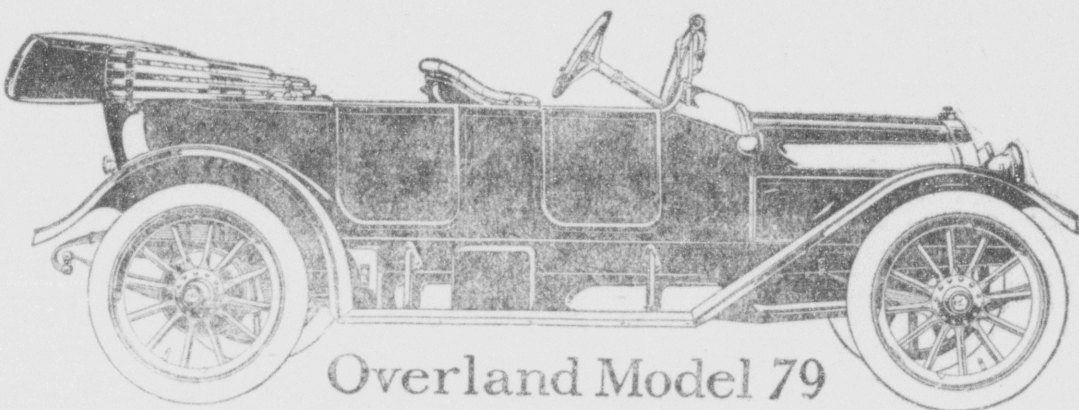

And that is why the Overland is not only letter-perfect mechanically, but, in addition, and what is probably just as important, that is why it costs you 30 per cent less.

Save Egg Losses.

(By H. L. Kempster)

Statistics show that during the summer months one-fourth to over one-half the eggs produced in Missouri are a total or partial loss.

Heat is directly or indirectly responsible for a loss to Missouri farmers of two and one-half million dollars worth of eggs annually. Heat causes germ growth, embryo and mould development, increases evaporation and causes eggs to become bad in a very short time. April eggs are high in quality because of the lower temperature which prevails at that time.

According to studies made at the Missouri College of Agriculture, nearly all of the loss in eggs due to heat can be avoided by the ordinary conveniences that the average farm provides. If farmers would take the same care of eggs that they do of butter before and during the time that it is taken to market, there would be practically no loss from heat. Any temperature above 70 degrees is too warm. Even under the best conditions eggs should be taken to market at least once each week.

Eggs should be collected daily and should be cooled as quickly as possible. A sweet, fresh basement which is cool or a cyclone cellar makes a satisfactory place to store eggs. They may also be kept cool by placing them in a bucket lowered into a well. Avoid storing them in musty basements and keep them away from the flies.

If these directions are followed and eggs are carefully protected from heat while being taken to market, the value of Missouri's egg crop may be increased two and one-half million dollars during the next four months.

GOING AFTER UNION PACIFIC

Salt Lake Commercial Club Protests Distribution of Extra Dividend.

Salt Lake, June 4.—Expressing a belief that the Union Pacific Railroad company has exceeded its charter rights as a corporation of Utah by declaring an extra dividend of $80,000,000, the Commercial club traffic bureau filed a request with Governor Spry, asking that he direct the attorney general to investigate and to take the proper steps to prevent distribution of the dividend. If it be found that the bureau is right in its position, the governor has the matter under advisement.

The basis of the petition is the expressed belief of the petitioner that if the dividend be distributed, it will furnish an excuse for the imposition of an unjust burden of taxation on the people of Utah in the form of freight charges.

Helping in Time of Danger.

My Wall Paper sale is going to last all summer. Stop in and look us over, Arnett Decorating Co.

Co-operation That Pays.

The farmers of Missouri are more and more helping themselves by mutual co-operation—and indeed co-operation is really organized self-help. The Secretary of the Board of Agriculture is moving actively to foster "Community Clubs" organizing for farm and country life betterment along practical lines.

FOR ARBITRATION OF TOLL ISSUE

Senate Committee Decides to Report Sutherland Resolution.

VOTE IS EIGHT TO SEVEN.

It Directs President Wilson to Open Negotiations With Great Britain for Settlement of the Panama Canal Tolls Question.

Washington, June 4.—Just when a vote on the Panama canal tolls exemption repeal bill seemed certain to come within a few days the senate foreign relations committee complicated the situation by reporting favorably a resolution designed to lead to the submission of the dispute with Great Britain to arbitration by an international tribunal.

So far as administration leaders know, the president is opposed to arbitration unless the tolls exemption repeal bill is passed. It is believed by many senators that without the president's approval no arbitration proposal can receive a majority.

By a vote of 8 to 6, the senate foreign relations committee adopted the Sutherland resolution directing President Wilson to open negotiations with Great Britain for special arbitration of the Panama tolls dispute. The resolution now goes to the senate.

Senator Borah (Rep.) was not present when the vote was taken, but later notified Chairman Stone he wished to vote against reporting the resolution, making the vote 8 to 7.

Sensors Stone, O'Gorman, Pomeroy, Swanson and Smith of Arizona, Democrats, and Smith of Michigan, Republican, were the others voting against it. Senators Hitchcock, Williams and Saulsbury, Democrats, and Lodge, Root, McCumber, Sutherland and Burton voted for it. Three were not present.

Senator O'Gorman declared the action would not affect the fight against the passage of the repeal bill.

"I don't know what the vote indicates," was Chairman Stone's only comment. "It is well understood in the senate, however, that many senators who favor arbitration believe that before it should be chosen as a method of settlement the repeal bill should be enacted."

PEACE NOW UP TO CARRANZA

Rebel Leader Asked to Participate in Mediation Conference.

MUCH DEPENDS UPON REPLY.

Setback May Be the Result—Report of a Compromise by Which the Constitutionalists May Be Admitted to the Deliberations.

Washington, June 4.—Whether the constitutionalists of Mexico are to participate in the peace negotiations at Niagara Falls probably will be determined before another day has passed.

Agents of General Carranza, the revolutionary chieftain, were in direct telegraphic communication with the constitutionalist leader, after having forwarded to him the answer of the South American mediators to his message of protest carried to Niagara Falls last week.

Publication of the message of the mediators was withheld here until General Carranza has determined upon his reply. Rafael Zubaran, minister of the interior in Carranza's cabinet and at the head of the constitutionalist agency in Washington, would not discuss the nature of the mediators' proposals or the probable attitude of his chief. Persons in touch with constitutionalist agents, however, ventured the suggestion that the terms upon which the mediators proposed to receive the constitutionalists into the peace negotiations would be declined.

The note from the mediators, addressed to Mr. Zubaran, reached Washington in the afternoon. As soon as the message was received Messrs. Zubaran, Vasconcelos and Urquidí of the constitutionalist agency began preparations to communicate with General Carranza at Durango by a special wire. When the message of the mediators had been forwarded, conferences with their chieftain were begun over the wire. It was stated that the message from the mediators was accompanied by a request that nothing be made public until a conclusion had been reached.

Administration Officials Wait.

While negotiations between Carranza and his Washington representatives were in progress, administration officials awaited the outcome with anxiety. In official quarters there were some expressions of apprehension over the success of mediation plans as originally outlined. It was the first time that any admissions had been made of probable setbacks in the progress of peace. Yet those who admitted the possibility of obstacles in the way of settlement of the Mexican situation insisted that all difficulties would be overcome.

Secretary Bryan again reiterated his insistent declaration that mediation was progressing satisfactorily.

Strictest secrecy was maintained at constitutionalist headquarters throughout the evening concerning the proposals to Carranza from the mediators. It was reported to certain compromise offers upon which Carranza's representatives would be admitted to the peace negotiations. These included, it was said, provision for a limited armistice and assurances of ample participation on the part of the constitutionalists in the proposed provisional government to replace the Huerta regime pending a general election.

FEAR INDIAN UPRISING

Settlers in Yaqui Valley Preparing to Desert Their Homes.

Naco, Ariz., June 4.—Because of Indian troubles, many American settlers, who through all previous difficulties have remained upon their ranches in the Yaqui river valley in Sonora, are preparing to desert their homes for the safety of the United States, according to reports which reached Naco.

In spite of warnings from the United States authorities, the Mexican constitutionalists and the Yaqui Indians themselves, the settlers previously had remained firm in their declaration to stay upon their property and the intention now to leave resulted from the constantly increasing number of Indians gathering in that district.

The Indian scare has spread rapidly throughout the entire state of Sonora, and inhabitants of towns in the Montezuma and Arizpe districts, 100 miles or more from the Yaqui river valley, are arming themselves in preparation for possible conflict with the Indians.

BOUGHT TROLLEYS TO INCREASE FACILITIES

Director Explains Why New Haven Expended Millions.

Washington, June 4.—William Skinner of Holyoke, Mass., and James S. Elton of Waterbury, Conn., directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, testifying before the interstate commerce commission at its investigation into the affairs of the road, said the acquisition of trolleys in sections of New England, steamship lines and other properties at a cost of many millions, constituted a part of the New Haven's comprehensive plan to increase its facilities.

Many of the properties thus acquired, it was stated, had only a prospective value, the natural growth of New England being taken into consideration by the directors.

Elton, questioned on this point by William Nelson Cromwell, counsel for several of the directors, said that the purchase for $11,000,000 of the New York, Westchester and Boston road, the stock of which former President Mellen of the New Haven testified was worth "10 cents a pound," was for the purpose of obtaining a foothold in the metropolitan district and obtaining greater and better terminal facilities in New York.

Elton testified the directors of the New Haven had changed their methods and now were not influenced so much by one or two men, like J. Pierpont Morgan and Mr. Mellen, as they formerly were. He said the "directors now direct and have learned a great many things." He added that President Elliott was more deliberate than Mr. Mellen and did not "rush them off their feet."

Skinner said it was his belief that "if things had been allowed to go on and the New Haven and its officials had not been subjected to inimical inquiries and legislation the property would have pulled out all right, perhaps in five years." He asserted that Mellen could have retained the presidency of the road had he so desired, as he had a majority of the directors with him.

BERNHARDT TO SERVE YEAR

Tveitmoe and Houlihan Will Be Given New Trials.

Chicago, June 4.—The judgment of the United States circuit court of appeals in granting new trials to Olat A. Tveitmoe of San Francisco and Richard Houlihan of Chicago, in the dynamite cases, was affirmed by that court in an opinion handed down by Judge Seaman.

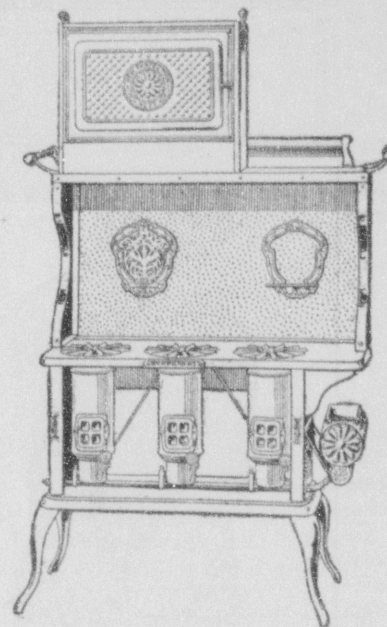

The court reversed itself in granting a new trial to William Bernhardt of Cincinnati. The government's contention that the court erred in granting Bernhardt a new trial was upheld by the court and the sentence of one year imposed by the lower court must be served, according to the opinion.

FOREST RESOURCES.

To Be Developed by University—50,000 Acres in Southern Part of State.

Although Missouri is not primarily a timber-producing state, its forest resources are to be developed by the forestry department of the University of Missouri. A tract of timber land in the southeast part of the state, in all about 50,000 acres, belonging to the State University is to be administered so as to give the most practical results.

Frederick Dunlap, professor of forestry at the University of Missouri, and Ernest C. Pegg, instructor in forestry, will go to the reserve this summer to make a thorough investigation of the land.

For the last six years none of this land has been sold, and it is the intention of the University to carry out this policy, unless some of the land is entirely unfit for timber growth.

"In a couple of decades we hope to have this land on a paying basis," said Professor Dunlap. "The land will be more than a laboratory place for the students in forestry. Missouri has no state forester and no state forestry department, but the forestry department of the University will do the work for the state. With careful supervision of this timber reserve, we hope to have an excellent body of timber within thirty or forty years."

Mrs. J. R. Lucas, of Chicago, who had been a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Ellison, and family, left Wednesday for Adrian, Mo., to spend several weeks with relatives.

ADVISE DRINKING GOAT MILK.

Experts of Department of Agriculture Say It Is Most Healthful.

Experts of the United States department of agriculture are urging us to raise more goats and to drink more of their milk. That there is money in goat raising can be seen from the fact that every year we import from other countries nearly $30,000,000 worth of goat skins. And there is ample scientific authority for the statement that goat's milk is not only the most economical, but the most healthful milk we can drink.

Milk is furnished much more cheaply by the goat because the yield, when the size of the goat and the amount of feed and care are considered, is proportionately much greater than the cows.

Aside from its greater degree of richness there is no appreciable difference in its appearance or taste.

Most important of all is the fact that the goat is the only dairy animal that is practically immune to tuberculosis. Its milk can be drunk freely without risk of taking into the system at the same time the germs of this dread disease.

According to Dr. W. Sheldon Bull of Buffalo there is hardly a part of the United States where goats would not thrive.

While it is true that the ideal locality for goats is one that is high and rocky and overgrown with weeds, briars, brush and small trees, as they are by nature and preference browsing animals, in this respect being an exception to all other domestic animals, it is a fact that such a location is not essential. The milch goat will thrive and produce a plentiful supply of rich milk when tethered on grass land, in addition to stall-feeding, if comfortably housed at night and during bad weather, or even when kept constantly in a barn and supplied with all its rations there.

This adaptability to confinement, together with its productiveness, makes the milch goat particularly valuable to the residents of cities and suburban places who desire to secure a regular supply of pure, new milk, without being dependent upon the milkman, whose "milkman's milk" is not always of the best quality and which, under the most favorable circumstances, is received and consumed with more or less suspicion as to its freshness, its cleanliness and its healthfulness.

Moulds Fatal to Poultry.

(By H. L. Kempster)

Mouldy litter in poultry houses and mouldy feed are the cause of a large number of deaths among poultry and particularly among chicks. These moulds taken into the body of the fowl cause a disease known as Aspergillosis. The disease is as fatal as the name sounds. Our scientists have neglected to find a shorter name for the disease, but among poultrymen chicks affected with the trouble are commonly spoken of as "lungers." Many times the disease is mistaken for white diarrhea. The Missouri College of Agriculture, in its investigation of poultry diseases, notes the following characteristic symptoms: The chick stands around in a drowsy manner and shows little desire to eat. The wings hang down, the breath is rapid and a white diarrhea is present.

An affected chick will be found to have soft, yellow growths from the size of a pin head to that of a pea, mainly in the lungs, but sometimes in the intestines and mesentery. These growths, clogging the air passages of the lungs, are directly responsible for the death of affected birds.

In mature fowls there are two forms of the disease. The mucous membrane lining the air-sacs and tubes may be covered with a membranous formation which is soft and yellowish and has an offensive odor, or the post mortem will reveal white or yellowish nodules imbedded in the tissues of the lungs.

Early symptoms are that the bird is inactive, sleepy and if forced to run, will fall from exhaustion; and breathing is rapid, appetite is diminished and more or less catarrh is present.

There is no cure for the trouble, but since it is caused by eating mouldy feed or by being permitted access to mouldy litter, it can be entirely prevented by not compelling fowls to eat mouldy food and by keeping them away from mouldy litter.

This is just one of the many poultry troubles that can be entirely avoided by feeding nothing but fresh clean feed and keeping the pens and yards free from filth and moulds.

PLACES DYNAMITE, THEN GIVES ALARM

Hoped to Prove Self a Hero and Get Raise in Salary.

Washington, June 3.—The finding of five sticks of dynamite, with burning fuses attached, under the office of Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture, led to the arrest of Daniel H. Jauch, the watchman who found the explosive.

The first warning was given the clerks and government officials in the building by the watchman, who rushed through the corridors, shouting that the massive structure was about to be destroyed by dynamite. Hundreds fled to safety, while several men ran to the basement, where they found the sticks of dynamite, on which the fuses had burned out. Apparently an explosion had been averted only because the fuses had been jammed so tightly into the detonation caps that the fire was extinguished.

The dynamite had been placed directly beneath the office of Secretary Houston. The secretary was out of town, but immediately across the corridor from his office Assistant Secretary Galloway and several other officials were working. That part of the building would have been destroyed had not the sizzling fuses burned out.

Jauch, who had suffered severe injuries to his head while serving as a soldier in the Philippines several years ago, was subjected to rigid questioning. Later the police announced he had admitted that he himself placed the explosives. Department officials said they believed the watchman intended to discover the dynamite before it could do harm, hoping thereby to win promotion for heroism.

SERUM FOR HOG CHOLERA

NOTWITHSTANDING THE GREAT GOOD IT HAS DONE, IT IS NOT THE ONLY MEASURE TO CONSIDER.

By J. W. Connaway, Professor of Veterinary Science, College of Agriculture, University of Missouri.

Notwithstanding the great good that serum has done in curing hog cholera, its importance is exaggerated. In fact, there are other and more important measures that should be used. The prompt and intelligent use of quite simple measures of sanitation by a group of farmers whose farms adjoin will effectively rid the neighborhood of the disease. The sick hogs and the dead hogs are full of the virus. These will contaminate feed, crops, fields, roadways, streams, fences, railroad and stock yards. These places and hazards may carry the disease from an infected farm to a healthy one. But if the proper precautions are taken to isolate and destroy the infection these carriers that are so difficult to control become harmless as distributors of the virus. The fact that we now have a serum to aid us does not lessen the importance of these simpler methods.

Isolate from the herd every sick hog on the first appearance of sickness. Do not wait until a diagnosis is made.

Quarantine Pens Should Have Poultry Netting Around Them.

Isolate the hog in a quarantine pen covered with wire netting. Keep out the chickens and birds. The infection will then be confined to small space and will not reach the other animals. To destroy the virus, the disease the dead hogs should be burned, the law requires it. Use fresh bleached lime abundantly about the carcass and scald, rake up the litter and burn it or mix it thoroughly with lime. Disinfect the wagon wheels and harnesses feet and soles of the driver when hogs have been hauled to the shipping station. The stock yards, as well as the pens, are infected.

During an outbreak of cholera put valuable dogs in quarantine and destroy the worthless ones. Make war on pigeons, buzzards and crows. Hogs should not be given access to ponds or running streams. Fence the ponds and pipe out the water into a trough. Keep the dogs free from lice and sores. A spray of crude oil will kill the lice. Slaughter and calomel (six grains to each 100 pounds live weight) on a slop, on an empty stomach, is useful in expelling worms. A mixture of sal soda, three pounds; copperas, three pounds; common salt, three pounds; sulphur, one pound; charcoal, four pounds, kept in a trough in a dry place is also a good worm preventive.

If the farmers of any neighborhood will follow the recommendations made, but little hog cholera serum will be required—and farmers have time and again kept their herds free from the disease by such measures.

However, when an outbreak of cholera does occur the farm adviser should be notified at once, if there is one in the county.

A balanced ration aids in keeping hogs in good health. When feeding in the dry lot corn can be balanced by feeding corn six parts and oil meal one part; or corn three parts and ship stuff one part; or corn 10 to 15 parts and tankage one part. Soybean or alfalfa hay is also excellent.

From the time rye, wheat, clover or alfalfa starts in the spring until the last pasturing goes in the fall, hogs should be kept out in the fields. Rape planted in rows will make pasture throughout the season, and it cannot be equalled as forage for hogs. Hogs should be kept on the plowed fields, rather than on permanent pastures. A good three-year rotation for hogs is: Corn and cowpeas; soy beans; rape. Shade should be provided. When throwing out corn throw it in different places. Fill an old wagon with corn and haul it from place to place. Water should be supplied from barrels or tanks, hauled to different places in fields where the hogs are pasturing.

The College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, together with the United States department of agriculture, tests seeds for vitality and impurities. This service is free to all Missouri farmers.

The ONLOOKER

HENRY HOWLAND

HE WONDERES IF SHE KNOWS

"I wonder if you know how fair you make the world for me? I wonder if you know that where you are I long to be? Your smile is like the morning sun that gladdens all below. When you appear the day is begun. But when we part the day is done—I wonder if you know or care, I wonder if you know?"

He wonders if she knows or cares; Why should he ever doubt it? The level, long—ing look he wears. Has told her all about it. Although he never tells her so, He may be sure that she will know; Love needs no speech—long, long ago Love learned to do without it.)

"I wonder if you ever guess That when you linger near The world is filled with loveliness, That when you leave 'tis drear? For you, sweetheart, it is that all The fairest breezes blow, And from the skies the stars would fall Responsive to your witching call: You smile to gladden and to bless—I wonder if you know?"

(He wonders if his sweetheart knows Or has the wit to guess it; He tells it everywhere he goes. His looks and sighs confess it. He thinks her lips forbidden fruit, Ah, let him cease from being mute, And boldly, bravely press his suit— She longs for him to press it.)

War Had No Terrors for Her.

"I can't understand how it is," said the natty lieutenant, "that you are able to be so calm."

"Why shouldn't I be calm?" replied the beautiful girl who had found a temporary refuge upon the mighty warship.

"I should think the firing of our guns would frighten you. Even men who are not used to them generally exhibit signs of terror, or, at least, of nervousness. They don't appear to disturb you at all."

"Oh, no. I don't mind them. You see, I have become accustomed to such sounds. That's one of the advantages of living where an automobile backfires every few minutes."

AS HE LIKED IT.

Pete, "if you ain't got no cream I'll only take sugar."

The Black Sheep.

"What," asked the man who had returned to his native town after an absence of many years, "became of Ed Ferguson?"

"Ed? Oh, he's doin' fine. Got the best liverly stable anywhere around here and runs the depot hack."

"Let's see, he had a younger brother, hadn't he?"

"Yes; Lem. He never amounted to much. Wrote poetry and painted pictures. I guess the family kind of owned him. At least, he went away several years ago, and I dunno what ever became of him."

Just the Man He Wanted.

"Doctors often scare people to death by letting them know how dangerous their maladies are," said the white-haired physician.

"Say, doc," the young man replied, "would you mind coming with me to diagnose my rich old uncle's case? And I'd be willing to double your fee if you would speak right out plainly in case you found anything serious the matter with him."

Certainly.

"Why do you always read the news paper criticisms of the opera so carefully after you have attended a performance?"

"People will be sure to ask about it and one must be able to answer as if one understood something about it, you know."

Faith.

"Don't you think," she asked, "that women are likely to have a deeper stronger faith than the men have?"

"They must have," he replied, "or it wouldn't be possible for so many beauty doctors to continue in the business."

Unnecessary.

"Why is it that so few of the monologue artists on the stage are women?"

"Women don't need to go on the stage to be monologue artists."

She Knows.

The maiden primping at her glass Is also very wise; By putting on a gown that shows Her figure best the winsome lass Makes plain the fact that she, too, knows It pays to advertise.
